

Caleb (audio "1 Collaboration" Transcript)

I have always enjoyed collaborating on library projects. When I was asked to join The Learning Portal team that was building the Research Hub, I was honoured to be asked and excited to contribute. But up to this point most of my collaborations had been in person, or at least involved meeting in person to discuss our work. This would be my first significant project where we designed and developed the content, all while working remotely.