

VOX POPULI

With the need for up-to-the-minute coverage of such great importance in the past year, I've been thinking a lot about the importance of our national broadcaster, the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

To celebrate the continued importance of this crucial media source, I've made a "crossword" that is constructed from the surnames of 12 CBC journalists from both radio and television. I've given you their first name(s) and a show they hosted, which might be from the past or the present. Can you figure out their surnames and where they fit into the puzzle?

For a bonus puzzle, unscramble the letters in the grey squares once you've finished the "crossword" to identify the first and last names of a thirteenth journalist. (HINT: both the first and last names have six letters)
